TO FIGHT SALOON CASE

Bitter Contest Expected in Baumester Action For Allowing Boys in Salcon.

The case against Henry Baumester, the saloonkeeper arrested Saturday night by the police department for allowing Grant Steel and W. R. Stone, two minors, in his saloon, came on for trial yesterday afternoon before Justice Hall. The case is to be bitterly contested, as the fathers of the boys, Henry Steel and A. R. Stone, are prepared to resist the proceedings inaugurated against the two boys, and will co-operate with Mr. Baumester. They take the ground that the arrest of the boys and of the saloonkeeper on account of the boys was an infringement on a personal liberty inasmuch as the fathers of the boys were in the saloon with them when the arrests were made, and they claim the right to take their chi'dren any place which they themselves have a right to go, so long as they conduct themselves in an orderly manner. Each father had retained an attorney, and yesterday when the proceedings came on for trial the attorney demurred on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction. The demurrer was overruled and after some testimony of the police officers the case was continued until Monday morning. The case against Henry Baumester

Roosevelt is beautifully decorated in the modern impressionistic style, which his majesty disapproved of in his recent art utterances. Nevertheless, the emperor was greatly pleased with the decorations when he saw the yacht at Kiel this week.

The artists were selected by Admiral von Thomsen. The walls are done in serpentine effects, the woodwork is silty or gray, and the upholstery of strange, vivid tints. The yacht was built for a torpedo boat, and why she was transformed into a yacht is not explained, but it is supposed this was on account of her rather too delicate framework, considering the British government's recent experience with torpedo boat destroyers.

The Alice Rooseveit, which is still at Kiel, will be transferred to Wilhelmshaven for the use of Admiral von Thomsen as commander of the North sea squadron.
